Thoughts for Prayer SHALOM

With God’s grace may we be good and faithful lookouts in the neighbourhood watch called Church.

As disciples, we are called to be on the lookout, to be alert and aware of potential dangers which might befall us or those around us. While we are not our brother’s or sister’s keeper, are not responsible for their choices, we do have an obligation to speak up and advise them when we see potential danger or a wrong turn. We are not accountable for the path they choose unless we remain silent and do or say nothing and just watch them slide into peril. Then we will share part of the blame. It is a fine line to walk between minding our own business and meddling in other people’s affairs. The way to keep our feet on the tightrope and not fall to either side is to say what we have to say in love. So often it is not what we say but how we say it which determines how an admonition is received. It we will, in love, gently and kindly watch out for one another we will fulfill the law and all God’s commandments. With God’s grace we may be good and faithful lookouts in the neighbourhood watch called Church. May we be gentle and kind reconcilers and may we try to avoid all debt except the debt of love.

Lord, You have entrusted us the good news that we are reconciled in You.

A prophet of God does not speak in personal name; he is rather the faithful and fearless mouthpiece of God. His responsibility is to warn and make everyone aware of one’s personal responsibility. Jesus likewise reminds us of our responsibility to one another in mutual correction. For, the correction of others is not an option but a duty that arises from Christian responsibility. We are called to love others and love never shirks responsibility.
